Articulation Bootcamp is a fun, supportive group for kids who are working on saying certain sounds. Each child will spend time working 1-on-1 with an adult, completing cooperative group activities, playing outside, and learning strategies to monitor speech at home. You will receive a progress report at the end of the week with follow-up recommendations. This is a good option for kids who have received speech therapy at school, kids who are hard to understand, and kids who sound younger than they are when speaking. This group is recommended for children ages 5-10. We will cap registration at 6 children to ensure that everyone receives individualized attention.

Social Scientists is a fun, outdoor group focused on building confidence, friendship skills, and problem solving abilities. We will meet at Kendrick Park each morning. Our daily schedule will include: group lessons, team building activities, science experiments, free play time, and individual goal work. Your child will come home with a reflection sheet each day so you can practice some of the new skills and strategies at home. This camp has been a favorite for the past two years and registration will fill quickly! We recommend this camp for children ages 8-12 and we will cap registration at 8 children.

Our Teen Social Group is a fun, safe, unique group that encourages critical thinking and self-awareness. We introduced this group last year and it was a big hit! Throughout the week we will practice friendship skills, problem solving skills, communicating in different settings (friends, school, home, etc.), and strategies for adapting to new situations. We'll also make time to get outside and have some fun each day! Your child will come home with a practical skills and strategies packet tailored to his/her individual needs and, hopefully, a few new friends at the end of the week. We recommend this group for teens ages 13-16. Registration will be capped at 6 teens.
